From Cork to France 24!

On 8 April 2021, AMOPA Irlande will host a conversation with Mr. James Creedon. James Creedon is an Irish journalist and presenter with a background in law and international relations, based in Paris for over a decade. James is a native of Cork and studied Law and French at UCC, graduating in 2005. He then pursued a Masters in Affaires internationales, conflits et sécurité at Sciences Po Paris. From there, he began his career as TV news journalists at the newly founded channel France 24 in 2007. He has presented a range of shows including prime time news broadcast “Live From Paris”, “Eye on Africa”, “Tech 24” and “MediaWatch”. He has also directed produced a feature-length independent documentary film “Thanks to your Noble Shadow”, part of the official selection at the Galway Film Fleadh in 2017. It recounts the life story of the last Irish missionary nun in Japan. James’s special interests are social media, technology and their social and political implications.
